

Happy Summer From The Sundog Crew!

It seems like summer has been slow coming this year. I guess we were spoiled with the last few warm summers and have forgotten what Alaska weather can do.

It is a bit silly, but one of my favorite things about this time of year is when the apple tree in front of my office window flowers and is almost blinding white. This makes up for the rest of the year when it is dropping rotten crab apples on my car and sap over everything. I am not complaining though (at least not too much). I'm truly blessed to live in Alaska now for 20 plus years and and continue to enjoy all it has to offer while serving my fellow Alaskans that trust Sundog with their websites. Enjoy the summer everyone!

How a New Server is Like a New Home

The Old House - Great bones and character.

The New House - Definitely an upgrade!

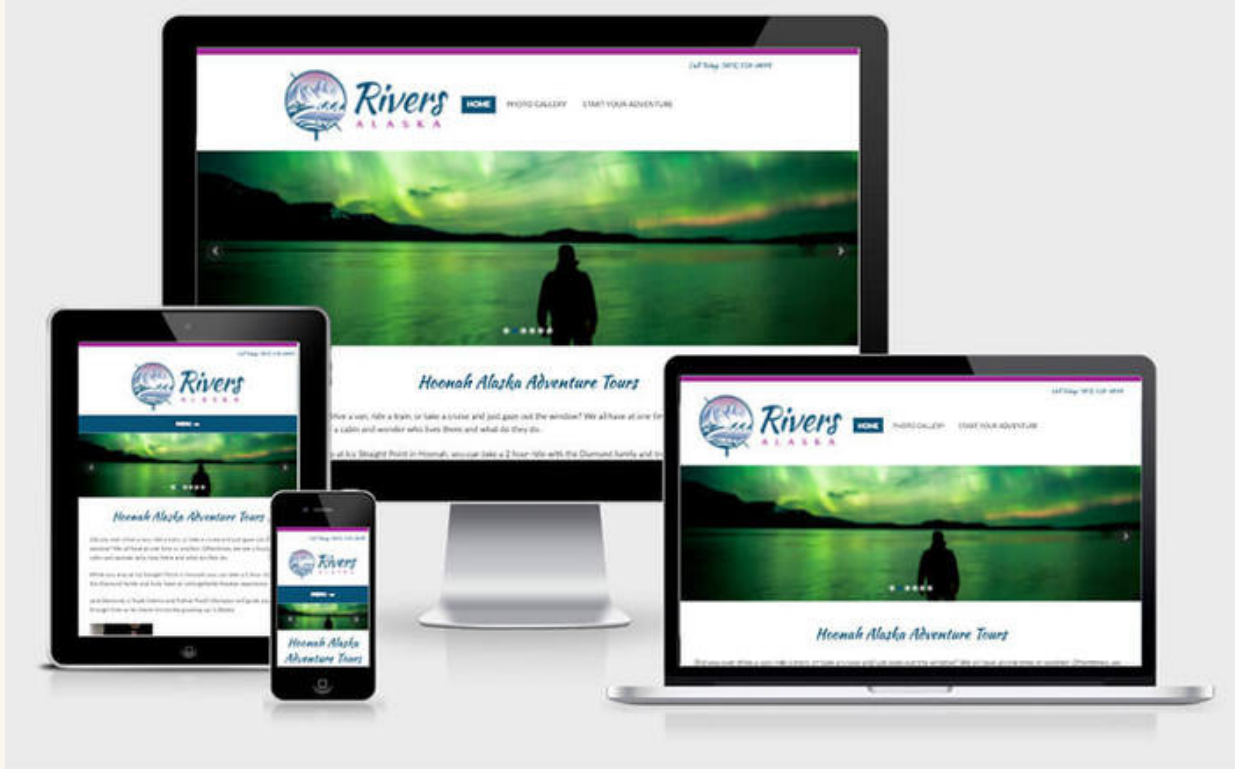

My family moved last month, upgrading from an old house with one bathroom, to a house that had been recently restored with (gasp) three bathrooms. It was a wise upgrade, especially because we have a 12-year old girl, getting ready to start Middle School. In addition to the extra baths, I was astonished by how nice it was to have new windows, lighting, cabinets, more efficient heating and cooling systems, a full-sized garage, a master bedroom with vaulted ceiling and a walkout balcony. I loved my old house, but we had definitely outgrown it.

It reminded me of the many server upgrades, moves, and migrations we perform here at Sundog Media, not to mention the ongoing maintenance we provide for your site's "home."

If we "move" your site, it's almost certainly for ...

Kudos

"I was most impressed with how responsive the Sundog team was to our suggestions and how quickly changes were made. When something wasn't right, they worked diligently and very patiently to create the website we desired. They have also continued to be responsive after the launch, providing information to help us help ourselves with regard to internet marketing."

"Starting a small business for the first time is very intimidating. Especially if you recently retired and wanted to do something totally different. A big part of any business is getting your message out in a clear, concise manner. Having the expertise of Sundog media was the best decision I've made. Joe and his staff worked with me to develop my ideas and put up a website that meets all my goals. As I begin this journey, I am thankful that Sundog will be there when I need them."
